

WEDO at COP29!

Bridget Burns, Executive Director, WEDO [17–23 Nov]

Bridget specializes in policy advocacy, research and movement building at the intersection of gender equality, women’s rights and environment/climate justice. For more than a decade, she has been particularly focused on integrating gender equality into the decisions and outcomes of the UNFCCC.

Mwanahamisi (“Mishy”) Singano, Global Policy Director, WEDO [9–23 Nov]

Mwanahamisi is an African feminist passionate about fighting structural and intersecting inequalities. At WEDO, Mwanahamisi serves as Global Policy Director, supports the Gender Just Transition portfolio, and leads WEDO’s engagements in other Rio Conventions (CBD and UNCCD) and UNDRR. She also serves as co-Focal Point of the Women and Gender Constituency (WGC).

Tara Daniel, Senior Manager, Policy, WEDO [14–23 Nov]

With over five years’ experience in the UNFCCC, Tara leads WEDO’s portfolio of work on feminist climate finance, including advocacy with the Green Climate Fund. She also coordinates work related to women’s participation and leadership in the climate negotiations, gender-responsive climate policy, and the Gender Climate Tracker (GCT).

Mara Dolan, Coordinator, Policy and Programs, WEDO [6–17 Nov]

Mara Dolan is a feminist, organizer, student, and writer. At WEDO, she leads the organization’s U.S. advocacy work- including support for the Feminist Green New Deal Coalition, as well as WEDO’s burgeoning work around energy justice, and peace and demilitarization.

Claudia Rubio, Program Associate, WEDO [10–23 Nov]

Claudia Rubio Giraldo is a Dominican-Colombian feminist, lawyer, researcher and activist. At WEDO, she supports the collection, analysis, and use of data in the Gender Climate Tracker and contributes to the ongoing development of the Gender and Environment Data Alliance.

Sinéad Magner, Coordinator, Policy and Programs, WEDO [6–17 Nov]

Sinéad Magner is an Irish feminist, campaigner, trainer and climate justice activist. At WEDO, she works on capacity strengthening of women and feminist leaders in the environment and global climate policy spheres, including via the Women Delegates Fund program. She also helps coordinates the WGC Working Groups on Just Transition and Agriculture.
